The lighting in this image looks really nice. The way that you used the rule of thirds with the horizon. IT helps illuminate the subjects.

This picture is amazing! The blurred background and focus on the whiskers adds a cool affect that really makes the cat pop.

The color filter that you added onto this image helped add a dramatic effect to the image. This goes perfectly along with the dog trying to escape. Really nice work.

The composition makes this photo less boring and really nice. I love how you used the rule of thirds. The camera is purrrfectly focused. I love the way the cat's colors blend in, yet stand out at the same time.
