The texture and shadows in this photo really make this boring tree pop! I also love how you got creative with the angle.

This is such a cool photo! I really love the colors and the blur. I like the point of view you took this at and how you can see the sun beaming behind the leaves. I also love how the sticks are outlined in detail.

I really love the detail in this and how you blurred the background to make this stem stand out! Really cool picture. I love how these random stems formed a perfect triangle.

This looks really nice because it is so crisp and clear. It would have been better if you used the rule of thirds instead of putting the triangle right in the middle. Other than that, this is so cool! I love how you captured this perfect triangle formed by the grass.
