This image is really neat. I love the lighting and the value. The way the pictures blurs off into the background is really cool too. Nice photographer's eye!

The angle that you took this picture at really helps add to it so it isn't boring. The dark lighting really makes the court pop. It's obvious in this that volleyball is your passion.

I love this picture so much! The rule of thirds would have helped a little more, but I love the detail. The lighting against the black background adds to the cool effect.

I love the angle you took this at and I love how the sun is in front of you. It adds a really nice effect with the shadow of the ball. The black and white made this image even better and I love all of the texture.
